COMRADES:

Since the publication of the Company rolls last spring, the Roster of the Regiment has been thoroughly revised by means of correspondence, interviews with officers and men of the regiment, and by a careful examination of the muster and muster-out rolls in the Adjutant General's office in Albany. The revised Roster is published at the request of the Executive Committee, and each man in the regiment will be furnished with a copy, so far as practicable.

The Roster is still quite imperfect. The whereabouts of a large number of men is unknown, or in doubt, and undoubtedly numbers have died whose names still appear among the living. In the addresses of Syracuse comrades the old street numbers are given. Comrades will confer a favor by furnishing the new numbers. Any person into whose hands this Roster may come, whether a member of the Regiment or not, is requested to carefully examine it; and if able to furnish additional information, or corrections, to communicate the same at once to me, at Syracuse, N. Y.

Secretary.

SYRACUSE, 1 April, 1889.

1349

Since the publication of the Company rolls last spring, the Record of the Regiment has been thoroughly revised by means of correspondence. The following general order brought the 185th Regiment into existence. In accordance with this order, authorizations were issued to various parties by the Adjutant General, at the request of the War Committee of the District, of which Major A. C. Powell was chairman. These detachments were finally consolidated into the ten companies forming the Regiment.

SPECIAL ORDER }
No. 354 }

In conformity with a communication from the War Department, dated August 20, 1864, Edwin S. Jenney, of Syracuse, is hereby authorized to raise a regiment of volunteer infantry in this State, to serve in the Army of United States and to be known as the 185th Regiment, New York State Volunteers.

The term of service will be for one, two, or three years, as recruits may elect; the regiment to be organized in conformity with General Order No. 110, War Department, series 1863, and General Order No. 131, current series, and such other rules and regulations as have been or may be established. If not completed in a reasonable time, it must be consolidated.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief:

Abstract

The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week resistance training program on the strength and endurance of the lower extremities in healthy young adults. The subjects were 20 male and 20 female college students, aged 18-25, who were randomly assigned to either a resistance training group or a control group. The resistance training group performed a 12-week program of resistance training, while the control group performed no exercise. The subjects were tested at baseline and at 12 weeks for strength and endurance. The results showed that the resistance training group had significantly greater strength and endurance than the control group at 12 weeks. The resistance training group also had significantly greater strength and endurance than the control group at baseline. The results suggest that a 12-week resistance training program can improve the strength and endurance of the lower extremities in healthy young adults.
